"what do you think?" she asked. the earl, still astride, cast his gaze slowly around the tiny glen as he studied the scenery. he then turned his attention to catherine but did not speak. a suggestive grin broke the calm of his expression as he continued to watch her. "more beautiful than i could have imagined," he murmured. simple statement that, but it held a wealth of meaning. catherine dropped her arms while staring back in fascination. her mouth fell open and her breathing quickened. the air vibrated with unspoken words as they shared a moment of absolute understanding. the specter of desire had been brought into the open and was acknowledged. experience in the garden of temptation today. meet characters you'll visit again in the other books in this series. now available on amazon: in the garden of seduction, book 2 of the garden series. in the garden of disgrace, book 3 of the garden series. in the garden of deceit, book 4 of the garden series. just released: thief of souls dark and sensual, thief of souls is one man's battle with evil for the fate of his humanity. it is a modern vampire-esque romance, gothic in tone, with a twist on the "beauty and the beast" theme, for the beast's ugliness resides on the inside rather than the outside, and his hope for redemption comes not from being loved by another but from discovering his own ability to love. ...more

"creation and fall" is bonhoeffer's lucid, brilliant analysis of the first three chapters of genesis. here he discusses the seeming scientific naiveté behind the creation story, god's love and goodness, and humanity's creation, its free will, and its blessedness. bonhoeffer also tackles difficult questions that are raised from the first book of the bible, questions about the seemingly redundant second story of creation, about god's own beginning, about the source of the light that was created the first day. the author then expounds upon adam and eve's fall from grace: how could they, creatures made in god's image, have thought to oppose god so foully? where did the first evil come from? how did humanity lose its right to live in paradise? in "temptation," bonhoeffer questions how temptation appeared in the midst of eden's innocence, and he explores the very nature of evil. bonhoeffer explains that jesus christ helps us to understand and conquer physical and spiritual temptation through his grace and goodness. ...more
